A Formal Model and General Theory

for

Comparator Networks

Leon Quiding

A Thesis submitted for the full requirements for the degree of Master of Science in Computer Science.

University of Auckland

November 30 1998

Abstract

In this thesis we introduce a formal model for comparator networks. This model offers a flexible and concise notation for subtle and complex definitions, theorems, and proofs. From this model we derive the beginnings of a general theory for comparator networks, i.e. the definition of properties common to all comparator networks.